MY FAVORITE APPLICATION

SPOTIFY

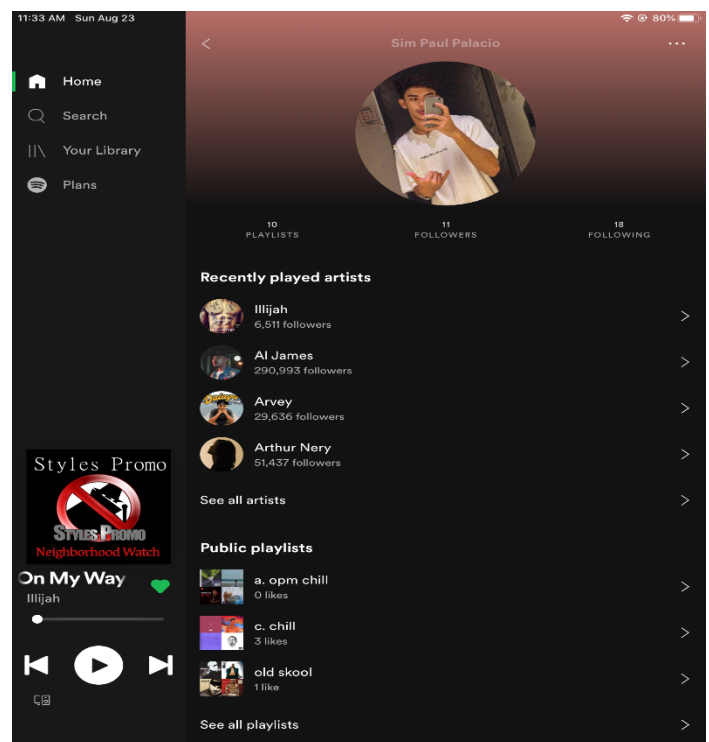

The number one reason on why Spotify is my favorite app is because I enjoy listening to my favorite songs and discovering new ones. I tend to share songs to my friends when I know what their music taste is. Also, whenever I feel any kind of emotion sad, happy, frustrated, angry etc. I listen to music; it helps me be at ease and helps me think. Furthermore, its easily accessible anywhere I go. I can listen while travelling and it somewhat creates my own world and, when I'm with my friends in the car, hotel, party etc. we will just have some fun.

I'll discuss the app in 4 sections and its features and what I like about those sections.

Section 1:

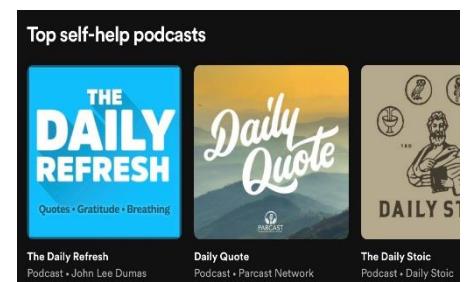

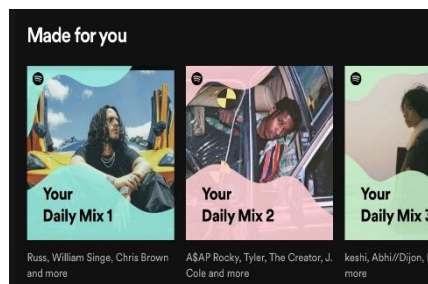

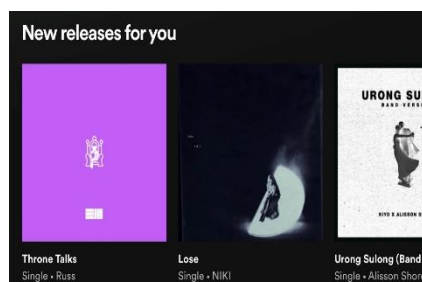

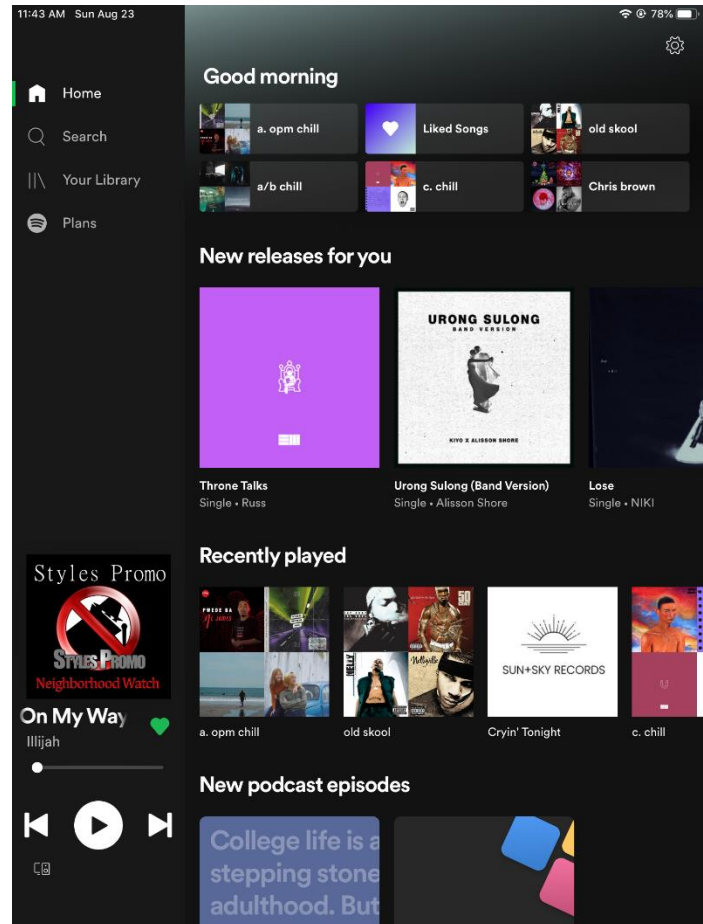

The Profile Section is simply where you can see the number of playlists you like or created. Next is your followers, your followers will see the playlists you've made and of course the following area is where you will see the artists or accounts you follow. Lastly, you'll see here is your recently played artists.

On the bottom left corner of the screen you will there what song or podcast you're currently listening to. The heart icon is for liking the song.

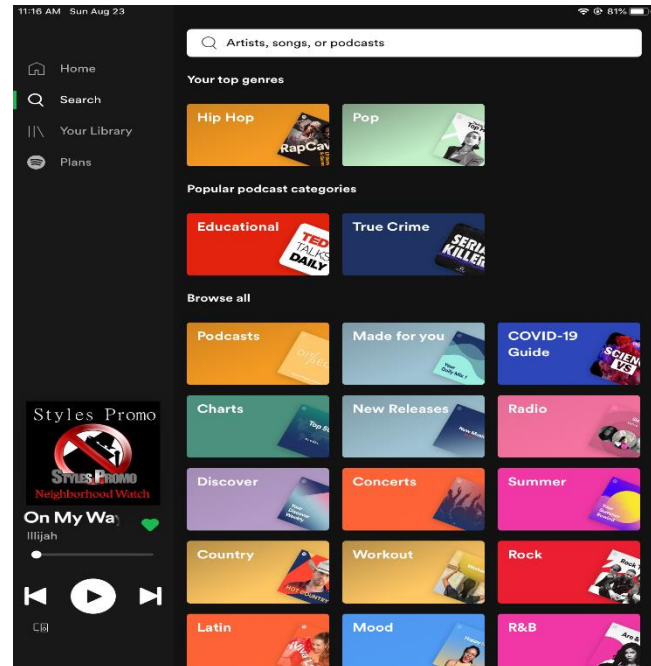

Section 2:

When you access Spotify, it has a simple and minimalist interface which I like. The features are straight forward, it won't be disorientating to the user. First the app will ask or make you follow artists that you often listen to, so that you'll be updated with their releases. its algorithm will create a home interface that is for your liking. One feature is Song recommendations on where the app suggests songs that you should listen to based on the genre of the artists you followed or the artists you followed. Another is, "Trending Now" on where you will see what songs that are popular or what people are mostly listen to. Also, it has a section where you will see new song releases from the artists you listen, follow and more. Next is the app will create different playlists for you every week, it's made up of songs, genres, artists that you often listen to which is named "Daily Mixed". Those are just some features I like in the home interface, there are plenty more features that you can access and explore when you download the app. In addition, Spotify isn't just all about music. You can also listen to podcasts, there's a specific section on when you can access different podcasts.

Section 3:

Moving on, the Search Interface; here you will see the search bar where you can look for specific song titles and artists. In this interface you will see different sections of genres of music and podcasts themes which you can explore on.

Section 4:

Lastly, my favorite section of app the “Your Library”. In here you can create playlists and name and organize them of your liking. Whether it be by genre, artist, mixed etc. However, there will be a specific playlists which is named “Liked Songs” in here you will see the songs you hit the like button on which is the heart icon. In addition, there is an “Artist” bar on which you will see the artists you follow and access their profile. Next is the “Album” bar which will show you Albums you like. Moreover, there is a Podcast area on which you will see episodes of podcasts you listen to and whom you’re listening to, as for me I don’t really listen to podcasts hence it doesn’t have content.
